The unique design not only makes it look different – it also delivers a combination of food safety and user-friendliness. Our bucket is the result of a profound understanding of the special needs and demands of professionals working with hot and cold ingredients in both solid and liquid form.

The Vikan bucket is made from FDA compliant materials and live up to the EU regulation 10/2011 for applications in the food industry. It is safe and stable to work with under all conditions as, even when filled with boiling water, the bucket will retain its shape and rigidity.
